A raw, unflinching memoir about how one man overcame the scars of a life-altering, horrific night at the hands of his unthinkable cruel child abuser. The almost fatal burns to his face happened when he was one year old, but at 43 years old today - and after eight years of sobriety and countless demons fought and slayed - he's a man who has been through hell and can now inspire and help others sort their way through their own personal trauma to find peace.

"I read your book and couldn't put it down. I really loved it! It's damn good and you should be very, very proud of yourself. I think it will inspire people who set really big goals for themselves."
